LININGS!

We are not mentioning linings in our coats. The public knows that the Alaska Furs have most wonderful linings.

We have a lot more big values which are subject to your inspection when you come in and look our stock over during this big sale. We will allow a certain amount of credit to responsible parties who buy fur coats.

Give a fur coat for Christmas—Nothing better or more practical.

The Foundation for Growth of "Classified Ad" Volume in Any Newspaper is in giving the READERS of that paper an unequalled Service. A Service that makes the ad you want to find—easy to find. A Service that, when you have found that ad—gives you the information you must have. A Service that protects the Reader against misleading, untruthful or exaggerative statements in ads, which might fool him and cause him inconvenience, or loss of time or money. The Bulletin's reorganized "Classified" Ad Department aims to give this intelligent, quick, convenient, friendly and protective Service to its Readers. For this reason, The Bulletin's "Classified" Ad section has been re-arranged so that the positions of the different classification will be arranged as shown in the list contained in column one on this page. The Bulletin censors all ads offered for publication, and reserves the right to refuse any ad which it thinks is not in the best interest of its Readers. The Bulletin reserves the right to correctly classify any ad, and to rearrange the ad to give quickest information to the Reader.
